POETRY.

A Prayer.

I ask not wealth, but power to take
And use whate'er I have rright;
Not years, but wisdom that shall make
My life a profit and delight.

I ask not that. for me, the plan
Of good and ill be set aside;
But that the common lot of man
Be nobly borne and glorified.

I know I may not always keep
My steps in places green and sweet,
Nor find the pathway of the deep
A path of safty for my feet.

But pray that when the tempest's breath
Shall fiercely sweep my way about,
I make no shipwreck of my faith
In the unbottomed sea of doubt.

And that though it be mine to know
How hard the stoniest pillow seems,
Good angels still may come and go
On the bright ladder of my dreams,

I do not ask for love below,—
That friends shall never be estranged,—
But for the Power of loving so
My soul may keep its youth unchanged.

And though wild lands or cruel seas
Hold me from dearest ones apart,
Still may all sweet capacities
Be open fountains in my heart.

Youth, joy, wealth—Fate, I give thee these;
Leave faith and hope till life is past,
And leave my heart's best impulses
Fresh and unfailing to the last.

For these. I think, of all good things
Most precious, out of Heaven above,
And that the power of loving brings
The fullest recompense of love.

DYING WORDS —Surely there is something very pathetic in those last words of Dr. Adams, of Edinburg, the High-school head master: "It grows dark, boys; you may go" As the shades of death were closing around him, the master's thoughts were still with his work; and thus regarding the shades of death as but the waning twilight of the earthly day, he gave the signal of dismissal to his imaginary scholars, and was at the same instant "dismissed from his work to his eternal rest."

At the time of Humboldt's death the sun was shining brilliantly into the room in which he was laying; and his last words, addressed to his niece, were these: How grand these rays; they seem to beckon earth to heaven."

One of Keat's latest utterances is full of a singular pathos and beauty. "I feel,' he said, on his death bed, I feel the flowers growing over me."

"Is your mind at ease?" was asked Oliver Goldsmith by his doctor. "No, it is not," was his melancholy reply.

Judge Talfourd expired while addressing a jury, and his last words were full of wisdom: "That which is wanted to bind together the bursting bonds of the differnt classes of this country is not kindness, but sympathy."

Addressing her husband, Charlotte Bronte said: "I am not going to die, am I? He will not seperate us, we have been so happy."

Tosso's last words were religious:—"Into Thy hands I commit my spirit."

Said Washington: "I am about to die and I am not afraid to die."

SOME months since an elderly couple were married in Paris, and after the congratulations of parents and friends, the nephew of the bride slipped, arose, exclaming:

"A tooth! a tooth! who has lost a tooth?"

"My sister," bawled out the bride's little brother, "she lost it yesterday and I found it."

The poor bride not knowing how to extricate herself, resorted to fainting.—The relatives hastened around, the old beldames tittered, the young misses whispered, and the finder of the tooth received a cuff that made him see stars.

As to the bridegroom, impassible as the sage of Horace, he besprinkled the fair bride with cologne and vinegar.

"Where am I?" muttered the poor girl, opning her eyes and closing her lips.

"In the midst of your friends, and in your husband's arms."

"What then, has happened? mon Dieu?"

"Alas!"

"Something frightful, then?"

"Frightful! 'tis enough to make one pluck the hear from his head."

Thus saying, the husband carried his clenched hand to his waving locks, and plucked off a magnificent wig.

A burst of loughter followed this act of conjucal heroism, and the wag of the company improvised a couplet upon the future happiness of the pair thus well matched.

ANECDOTES OF BIRDS —There is much more intellect in birds than people suppose. An instance of that occurred in a slate quarry belonging to a friend, from whom I have the narrative. A thrush, not aware of the extensive properties of gunpowder, thought proper to build her nest on a ridge of the quarry, in the very center of which they were constantly blasting the rock. At first she was very much discomposed by the fragments flying in all directions, but she would not quit her chosen locality. She soon observed that a bell rang whenever a train was about to be fired, and that, at the notice, the workmen retired to safe positions. In a few days, when she heard the bell, she quitted her exposed situation, and flew down to where the woakmen sheltered themselves, dropping close to their feet. There she would remain until the explosion had taken place, and then she returned to her nest. The workmen observed this, and told it to their employers, and it was also told to visitors who came to view the querry.—The visitors naturally expressed a wish to witness so curious a specimen of intellect but as the rock could not always be ready to be blasted when visitors came, the bell was rung instead, and for a few times answered the same purpose The thrush flew down close to where they stood; but she perceived that she was trifled with, and it interfered with her process of incubation; the consequence was, that afterwards, when the bell was rung, she would peep over the ledge, to asertain if the workmen did retreat, and if they did not, she would remain where she was, probably saying to herself. "No, no, gentlemen; I m not to be rousted off my eggs for your amusement." Some birds have a great deal of humor in them particularly the raven. One that belonged to me was the most mischievous and amusing creature I ever met with. He would get into the flower garden, go to the beds where the gardener had sowed a great variety of seeds, with sticks put in the ground with labels, and then he would amuse himself with pulling up every stick, and laying them in heaps of ten or twelve in the path. This used to irritate the old gardener very much, who would drive him away. The raven knew that he ought not to do it, or he would not have done it. He would soon return to his mischief, and when the gardener again chased him, (the old man could not walk very fast,) the raven would just keep clear of the rake or hoe in his hand, doncing back before him, and singing as plain as a man could, 'Tol de rol de rol! Tol de rol de rol!' with all kinds of mimicking gestures. The bird is alive now, and continues the same meritorious practice whenever he can find an opportunity.—Marryatt.

I DON'T LIKE MY BUSINESS —There is no greater fallacy in the world than that entertained by many young men that some pursuit in life can be found wholly suited to their tastes, whims and fancies. This philosopher's stone can never be discovered; and every one whe makes his life a search for it will be ruined. Much truth is contained in the Irishman's remark: "It is never aisy to work hard." Let, therefore, the fact be always remembered by the young, that no life work can be found entirely agreeable to man. Success always lie at the top of the bill; if we would reach it, we can do so only by hard presevering effort, while beset with difficulties of every kind. Genius counts nothing in the battle of life. Determined, obstinate preseverance in one single channel, is everything. Hence should any youth be debating in his mind a change of business, imagining he has a genius for some other, let him at once dismiss the thought as he would a temptation to do evil. If you think you made a mistake in choosing the pursuit or profession you did, don't make anether by leaving it. Spend all your energies in working for, and clinging to it, as you would to the life-boat that sustained you in the midst of the ocean. If you leave it, it is almost certain that you will go down; but if you cling to it, informing yourself about it until you are its master, bending your every energy to the work, success is certain. Good, hard, earnest effort, steadily persevered in, will make your love for your business or profession, grow; since no one should expect to reach a period when he can feel that his life-work is jus the one he could have done best and would have liked best.—We are allowed to see and feel the roughness in our own pathway, but none in others; yet all have them.—Hunt's Merchants' Magazine.

"PAT," said a builder to an Irishman engaged in carrying slate to the top of a four story building, "have you any houses in Ireland as tall as this one?" Ya'as McMither's cabin." "How many rooms had it?" "There was the ateing room, the sleeping room, the kitchen room, and the pig pen—four rooms." "That's a story," said the builder. "Ya'as, four stories," says Pat.

A FRIGHTENED CONTRABAND.—A letter received from the army correspondent on the Rappahannock relates the following camp incident:

An amusing incident occurred in camp a night or two since. A portly young contraband, from Charleston, S. C., who escaped from his rebel master at Antietam, and was for a while quartered subsequently in Washington was engaged by one of our junior staff officers as his body servant, and brought down here to hse quarters to attend him. It chanced that the officer had served his country gallantly at Sharpsburg, where he lost a leg, below the knee, the absence of which had been made up by an artifical limb, which the captain wore with so easy a grace that few persons who met him suspected his misfortune—his sable attendant being among the blissful ignorant as to the existence of the lamentable fact.

The captain had been "out to dine," and returned in excellent spirits to his tent. Upon retiring he called his dar key servant to assist him in pulling off his riding boots.

"Now Jimmy, look sharp,' said the captain. 'I'm a little—ic—flimsy, Jimmy, t'night. Look sharp, an—ic—pull steady.'

'Ise allers keerful, cap'n,' says Jimmy, darwing off one long, wet boot, with considerable difficulty, and standing it aside.

'Now, mind your eye—Jim! The other—ic—a little tight,' and black Jimmy chuckled and showed his shining ivores, as he reflected perhapse that his master was quite as 'tight' as he deemed his boots to be.

"Easy, now—that's it. Pull away!' continued the captain, good naturedly, and enjoying the prospective joke, while he loosened the straps about his waist which held his cork leg up—"now you'v got it! Yip—there you are! Oh Lord! oh, lord! oh lord!' screamed the Captain, as contraband, cork leg, riding boot and ligatures tumbled across the thet in a heap, and the one-legged officer fell back on his pallet, convulsed with spasmodic laughter.

At this moment the door opened and a lieutenant entered.

"G'way fum me, g'way fum me—lemmy be! lemmy be! I an't done nuffin," yelled the contraband, lustily, and rushing to the door, really supposing he had pulled his master's leg clean off. Lemmy go! I didn't do nufin—g'way! g'way!"—And Jimmy put for the woods in his desperation, since which he hasn't been seen or heard from, though his Captain has diligently sought for him far and near—Jimmy was a good servant, but we never before were treated to a sight of a thoroughly frightened contraband. There is little doubt the darkey is running yet.

THE dearest friends live together for years without daring to speak things which they know, and which each party knows that the other knows. Parents live with a reserve years long toward their children. Children carry untouched, unsyllabled, thoughts and feelings that take hold of their very being. Friends mee; and part day by day—friends so true that they woule almost die for each other; or, what is harder than this, who are willing to live for each other—and never speak of things that each knows is passing in the other's mind. It is very strange to see people come up in conversation to topics that, by a tacit freema. sonry, are sacred and without word or loo one glides on one side and the other on the other side, and meet beyond, going down the common channel again.—Was there ever a thoughtful, sentive person that dared to be open, transparent, frank? But however this may be, there can be no doubt people are not frank enough for each other's good. If men knew how to speak the truth in love, how rich might one become! A man might then stand in the focus of the wisdom of his friends. But, refusing to let their lights shine, men may grope in the partial light of their own wisdom, distempered by self loqe.

WHN THEY ARE GREENBACKS.—Ever since the adoption of a paper currency, it has been the constant study of bank-note engravers to get up some plan of printing bills that could not be counterfeited; in this they only partly succeeded till as late as 1857. A man nomed Stacy J. Edson invented a kind of green ink, which he patented June 30th, of that year. It is called anti photographic ink, because it connot be photographed on account of its color, and cannot be dislodged with alkalies by counterfeiters, to get a complete face simile of the bill.—And as it is a secret only known to the American Bank Note Company, and the inventor, it is impossible to counterfeit the greenback money.

IN a fight, take your friends part; in a feast, let him have it himself.

A MODEL WIFE.—It is her happiness to be ignorant of all that the world calls pleasure; her glory is to live in the duties of a wife and mother; and she consecrates her days to the practice of social virtues. Occupied in the government of her family, she reigns over her husband by complaisance; over her children by mildness; over her domestics by goodness. Her house is the residence of religious sentiments, of filial piety, of conjugal love, of maternal tenderness, of order, peace, sweet sleep, and good health. Economical and studious, she prevents want, and dissipates the evil passions; the indignent who present themselves at her door are never repulsed; the licentious avoid her presence. She has a character of reserve and dignity that makes her respected; of indulgence and sensibility, that makes her loved; of prudence and firmness, that makes her esteemed. She diffuses around her a mild warmth, a pure light, which vivify and illumine all that encircle her. Happy the man who possesses such a wife, and can justly appreciate her worth; happy the children who are nurtured by her care and modeled by her counsil; happy the domestics who wait her commands and enjoy her benevolence; and happy the society which holds in its bosom a being worthy of a better world.

WILLIS AND THE SPIRITS.—In the New York Home Journal, Mr. Willis relates some of his experiance with a "medium" whom he names as operating now in New York. In coming to the sitting, he says he brought with him two letters as the test of the clairvoyance of the medium, who forthwith "went into his usual trance," and soon he told Mr. Willis a great many things connected with the writers of the letters, including messages from them, and others from Jane Porter, Joanna Barlie and the Count D'Orsay—pleasant messages, "all seeming to hinge upon old fashoned friendships of the best quality." Mr. Willis says he has been present at several of these sittings, and has seen positive miracles of this medium's doing.

TO LET.—There are more things "to let" than are placarded. Hearts are to let every day; old hearts, young hearts, stricken hearts—all empty—all to let—There are heads to let, to any new thing, ism, ologies and ists; heads without a tenant. There are hands to let—hands plump and fair, hands lean and brown; those to love, those to labor, those for rags and those for rings. There are consciences to let, elastic, accommodating consciences at five per cent a month; to let on bond and mortgage, and a pound of flesh. And so it goes from sods to souls; almost everything with its price, everytheng in the market but griefs.—They are never quoted—never at a premium.

RATHER OMINOUS —A New Haven paper, describing the localities of three prominent institutions of that city, says: 'The Medical College is on the high road to the cemetary; the Divinity College is on the road to the poor-house; and the law school is on the road to the jail."

A Kentucky paper says it is getting to be very fashionable in that quarter to enclose a dollar with marriage notices, when sending them to the prinser.—A good custom that ought to prevail everywhere.

Six dollars to printer and priest,
No sensible man could refuse,
Five dollars to render him blest,
And one to publish the news!

THERE was a shrewd girl, not devoid of true modesty either, who remarked, when other girls were making fun of her short skirts and white hose, and affecting to pe much shocked at the exhibition thereof at a party: "If you'd only pull up your dresses about your necks, where they ought to be, they'd be as short as mine!" She was not troubled any more.

"WHAT'S that are pictur' on?" asked a countryman, in a print stors, the other day, of the proprietor, who was turning over some engravings.

"That, sir, is Joshua commanding the sun to stand stand still.

"Du tell! Which is Josh and which is his son?"

I clasped her thin hand in mine; I clasped her beautious form; I vowed to shield her from the wind, and from the world's cold storm. She set her beauteous eyes on me; the tears did wildly flow; and with her little lips she said: "Confound you, let me go!"

"PAT," said a gentleman to his servent, "what's all that noise in the street" "O nothing, sir; they are only forcing a man to volunteer.

Hutton, they were instructed to use their own judgment in nominating candidates for State offices.

GREENBACKS TAKEN AT PAR.—An Irish girl, an operative in Smith's paper mill, Lee, Massachusetts, recently found five genuine $1,000 Treasury notes in the paper rags, and another girl in another mill, in another lot of rags, found a gold chain valued at $50.

INJUNCTION DENIED.—In the District Court on Saturday, June 6th, Judge McKune gave an opinion in the case of J. P. Robinson vs. A. C. Bidwell et. al., denying the application for an injunction and dissolving the restraining order as to the Sacramento subscriptien to the stock of the Central Pacific Railroad Company.—The selfish attempts to defeat the popular decision respecting this enterprise, have thus been thwarted both in Sacramento and Placer; unless an appeal should be taken to the Supreme Court. Appeal.

BIG CLIP OF WOOL.—The California Farmer says that Flint, Bixby & Co., of San Juan, Monterey county, have now on the way to S. Francsco their wool clip for the season, which will amount from 100,000 to 110,000 pounds of fine wool, much of it of superior quality, worth 30 cents per pound. This is equal to half a dollar per pound in New York, by reason of the difference of exchange and currency. We here, are losers. Flint Bixby & Co. were early engaged with French Merinos; their flocks are now, though of high charicter, all Spanish Merino. These seem now to be the favorite sheep.

WHEN THE SNOW MELTETH &c.—It appears from the proceedings of some of the Union conventions, that they were about to get up a family quarrel, and have a grand split in the party, indeed in Solano county their convention split, and both factions have put in nomination a ticket to be supported by the Union or Republican party, as the case may be, and each expect to be successful before the people; also in Sacramento county the Union party have become divided, and of course "a house divided against itself cannot stand," therefore it must succumb and go under. It would appear that the advocates of the "irrepressible conflict" are about to put that doctrine in practice, and inaugurate a conflict for the spoils of office among themselves. Men who have thrown aside their former political ties, and gone into this Union party for no other purpose than of personal promotion and emolument, are not to be put off to give place to the old or new converts to the Union party—they went in for that purpose, and unless they can get it, they are determined to "let the Union (party) slide" and—so will they—that is, the disappointed office seekers and their friends. But others go out on principle—being either too radical or not sufficiently so, and like a ball of snow, being rolled through its own element until completed, the breach in the party widens, but when the snow melteth, then comes a flood (the election) and then it will be seen that factions consolidated into parties without a Constitutional and national principal cannot survive.

STRYCHNINE VS DOGS.—Some person or persons having more of malignity than charity in his or their nature have commenced the wholesale destruction of the dogs of this town, by the very liberal distribution of meat plentifully sprinkled with Strychnine, by means of which a considerable number of the canine species have been killed; also some chickens belonging to some families living in the neighborhood. Now we know not the motive or cause that induced this proceeding against the dogs, but we only know that at best it favors a very bad disposition and a very indiscret person; for it not only destroyes bad dogs, but some valuable ones (at least valuable to their owners) which if the owners were informed that their dogs were in the habit of doing mischief, (?) they would not permit them to run at large. And furthermore, why distribute this most deadly of poisons almost at our very doors? it is possible that children may pick up a peice of meat, containing this poison, to throw to a favorite dog, and, in doing so, be also poisoned therefore it is not only destroying dogs, but endangering the lives of children. We admit that there are plenty of dogs that can well be spared from our midst, and their owners would not complain if they were killed; but there are other modes of killing them than by strewing poison around our street, and we hope that this mode at least, will be discarded in the future.

BY OVERLAND TELEGRAPH.

The following dispatches are from the Sacramento Union

NEW YORK, June, 10—The Times estimates Sturart's forces at ten to fifteen thousand. He has been massing, drilling and supplying them since the battle of Chancellorsville at Brandy Station, five miles south of Culpepper. His intentions is understood to be to make a raid into Maryland and Pennsylvania.—Hooker has sent to the vicinity a force of cavalry and artillery equal to that of the rebels, with several thousand picket infantry, the latter under General Russell of Massachusetts and General Ames, of Maine. Pleasanton, Kilpattrick, Buford, Davis, Gregg, Duff, Host, and other superior cavalry officers, are also there, Pleasanton being in chief command.—His force, doubtless, reached its destination on Thursday, June 4th.

MURFREESBORO June 9—A lady from Shelbyville, who arrived to-day, says the report of the surrender of the Vicksburg garrison of twelve thousand men was prevalent in the rebel camps. She states that the rebel papers had published particulars.

Col. Lawrence A. Williams, formerly of the Second United States Cavalry, and recently General Bragg's Chief of Artillery, and Lieutenant Dunlap, of the rebel army, were arrested as spies last night at Franklin, under the following circumstances: They made their appearance at Franklin in full Federal uniform, presenting themselves as Inspectors of the United States Army, having orders from Assistant Adjutant General Townsend, and countersigned by Rosecrans, to inspect the fortifications in this department. Colonel Watkins grew suspicious and communicated his doubts to Colonel Bayard, who telegraphed to Rosecrans to inquire if any such persons held position in the army. Rosecrans replied in the negative. Finding themselves detected, the rebels confessed their document was of a treasonable nature.—Contraband information was found on them. Rosecrans ordered a Court martial, and this morning they were both hung.

WASHINGTON, June 9—Twenty men were killed and fifteen wounded by an explosion to-day of the magazine of Fort Lyon, near Alexandria. The accident was caused by carelessness. The magazine was totally destroyed. No damage was done to the guns or carriages.

June 10—From what can be ascertained from persons arriving from the Rappahannock, a division of troops went over the river on Monday night, June 8th, and the rebel rifle pits, foliage, etc., along the banks were destroyed and earthworks thrown up in front with a view to preventing a night attack and to shield our men from the enemy.

A severe engagement took place yesterday morning, 9th, between our cavalry and that of the rebels under General Stuart, at Beverly Ford, on the Rappahannock, five miles above Rappahannock Station, and about the same distance from Sulphur Springs.

General Banks, in an official report, dated "Before Port Hudson, May 30th," gives an account of the move on that place similar to the report already published. In speaking of the negro troops, he says: "They answered every expectation. No troops could be more determined or more brave. They made during the day three charges upon the batteries of the enemy, suffering very heavy losses, holding their position at nightfall with the other troops on the right of the line. The highest commentation is bestowed upon them by the officers in command. Whatever doubt may have existed heretofore as to the efficiency of an organization of this character, the history of this fight proves conclusively to those who were in the condition to observe the conduct of these regiments that the Government will find in this class of troops effective supporters and defenders. The severe test to which they were subjected, and the determined manner in which they encountered the enemy, leaves upon my mind no doubt of their ultimate success. Our loss from May 23d to this date, in killed, wounded and missing, are nearly a thousand, including, I deeply regret to say, some able officers."

NEW YORK, June 10—The Post's special dispatch says: The fight between Hooker's cavalry and Stuart's force yesterday (the 9th) was a very brilliant exploit. From officers who participated in the fight it is ascertained that yesterday morning two brigades of Pleasanton's cavalry, under Buford, made an important reconnoissance towards Culpepper, and had one of the most obstinate cavalry fights of the war. The force comprised Buford's own brigade and another brigade under Colonel Davis, supported by two batteries of artillery ann two regiments of infantry as a reserve. At 12 o'clock on Monday night, June 8th, the cavalry bivouacked near Beverly Ford, on the Rappahannock. At three in the morning the men were called, and at four o'clock they crossed the ford. Beyond the ford there was a semi-circular belt of woods, with a range of rifle pits near the edge of the timber. A line of pickets guarded the ford and the southern bank of the river. The Eighth New York Cavalry crossed first and drove the enemy back to their rifle pits, and after a desperate combat cleared the woods, the enemy falling back upon their artillery and maintained their position until twelve o'clock, when our artillery came up and the rebels were again driven back for six miles in the direction of Culpepper Court House, when our forces returned and re-crossed in good order. Nearly all the fighting done by the cavalry was of the bloodiest character—mostly hand-to hand with saber and pistol in the woods. The heavy timber was not very dense, so that the horses could advance through it, but the undergrowth was thick. Our loss was considerable, and the slaughter of the rebels fearful. No estimate of the number of casualties on both sides can be given. It is reported that Colonel B. Davis was killed. By this sudden and brilliant dash of our cavalry into the enemy's line, their plans have been frustrated and the intended raid of Stuart's forces prevented.

CHICAGO, June 10—The Anglo African, in its last issue, in an article on the colored element in the war, says the negro troops now in the service number thurty five thousand, not including those acting as pioneers for Banks ond Grant. It says these will doubtless swell the number to fifty thousand.

CORTINAS VALLEY, June 6th, 1863.

MR. EDITOR:—There are times in a man's life which induces him to imagine himself an independent being, and he even at times thinks himself a sort of a government, on a "small scale," and to some extent he is; but an individual without the means of procuring a living, or a government without resources, will soon become bankrupt and insolvent; therefore nations and individuals are dependent upon each other for support.—Well, you ask what suggested this thought? The answer is simple. On last Saturday, in accordance with a long standing invitation from an esteemed friend, I started in his company to pay him a visit at his home in the mountains, and accordingly we arrived here in the evening of the same day, all "safe and sound" and, after partaking of an old-fashoned bachelors supper (for my friend is still in that blissful state,) we rested as well as we could, and felt quite refreshed baring our burning eyes, and soreness which "time can only heal."

I must say that I was truly surprised at the sudden change on arriving at the top or summit of the low mountains, overlooking the considerable fields—comprising my friends ranch, from the parched and burning plains of the Sacramento valley. Here I see corn that is growing finely, and which makes one think of old fashioned "Husking frolick" and brings to mind the "good old days of yoru," also potatoes of the finest kind, which if I had to dig when ripe, would certainly produce "an acheing in my back" before the task was completed—for there are acres of them. There are peas, beans, barley, watermelons, turnips, and in fact the whole family of garden vegetables "too numerous to mention;" but I must not forget the fact that on the place, as the Irish would say: "the making of a fine Vineyard," for he has already "set out" quite a large lot of "cuttings" and they look fine.

You who have been cut off for months from the pleasure of a trip to the but partially settled mountain ranges, can well imagine how it would operate or how you would feel to be "free from lifes dull cares" for a few days, in order that you might gain a sight of nature, and feel the bracing air of the Coast Range and, as my friend told me I would, I feel like a new man—there is nothing like it.

In all places where mankind is, you will find places of amusement; so it is in Cortinas Valley. It may not be of that civilized kind that has become so popular among the young, and some older ones, but nevertheless it is amusement—I speak of the Indian "Pow Wow," which takes place semi-occasionally wherever there is an Indian Rancherie. Well the aboriginals were having a grand one on Saturday previous to their starting for other parts, and of course all tha whites in the valley went to see the modus operandi of a "pow-wow," and your correspondent among the number, as I had not seen one before. Soon after our arrival, we entered their commodious dance-house and took our seats on the ground (everything in the shape of seats being ridgedly excluded) and I then availed myself of the opportunity of examining the building. It is not of the most approved modern style of Architecture, but it is nevertheless a style that is much in vogue among them. Its length is about fifty feet by about forty in width, and its shape is oblong, with an arching roof.—its roof is of dirt the rafters being supported by large forked poles, and its height is about twenty feet. The floor is some four or five feet below the surface of the ground. Well as I said, we entered and seated ourselves on the ground in the most approved Indian style—for "when in Rome &c"—and began to look rather impatiently for the grand enterance of the "star troupe" of dancers, and presently, amidst the shouts of the natives, they made their entree in all their native grandeur and pride, and immediately commenced their performance around a huge log fire that was kept burning brightly in the center of the stage or ring, around which they performed their evolutions to the music of a hollow log, four split sticks, two wooden whistles, and four(what shall I call them?) well, howlers. We left at about eleven o'clock, as we were yet not entirely over our days ride, but well satisfied with the entertainment, feeling glad thet we had seen an Indian "pow-wow in Cortinas Valley.

I have, so far had a very plesant visit—my time being short in hunting; for game is plenty here, and I have ranged over the mountains with almost a boyish glee.

But I hear you repeat what suggested the first thought? Well, it is simply this: I borrowed a horse from a ranch on the plains—she is a noted animal for being hard to catch—she had been kept at or near the ranch on the plains for several years and of course liked to be there, with her old associates. On last Thursday night I picketed her out and went to bed; but on going out in the morning, my conveyance for returning home, I discovered, bad "vamoused the ranch" and I am left here in the valley afoot, therefore I find myself suddenly changed from an independent being to a very dependent one, for I am on the charity of my friend who says he will keep me as long as I will stay, but "grub" may suffer, and it wont do to impose on good nature too much, therefore I will be forced to make the best of a bad job and—and walk home—its a fine opportunity to practice a "forced march," in case I am drafted, don't you think if I stand it well I had better apply for a command?

But seriously I have had what I call a good time, and am only sorry that I have but one week to spend in the Coast range There is something new every day for me to see, running over and around the mountains, and can you say that Knight's Landing can furnish anything new, or is it not the same thing over each day?—the Landing is good, but the mountains are better.

This valley is from eight to ten miles in length and will average about half a mile in width. Water is easy of access, for it lays near the surface—the soil is excellent and feed for sheep and cattle is of the best kind and plenty of it, indeed, Cortina valley is not surpassed in point of convenience by any valley in the state; the only draw-back it has is its isolation from society; but in the course of time this may be somewhat improved.

I will break off right here, as I do not know that what I have written will be acceptible, and shall only say that on to-morrow I expect to start for home afoot, hoping that you some time may have as pleasant a time as I have had with my friend, but I wish you better luck with your horse.

Knight's Landing News.

A very tall man in a train of cars said to his neighbor: "I will get out here and stretch my legs a bit, as we wait ten minutes." "For goodness sake, sir, don't do that, they are too long by half already."

THE Utica Telegraph has fished up a man in that city so mean that he has taking to biting the ends of his fingers to save the amount of the new tax on cut-nails.

Farming Implements & Machines,

J STREET, BETWEEN FRONT AND 2D,

Sacramento.

VIZ: Threshing, reaping and mowing, machines; horse hay rakes, cast and steel plows, plow castings, cultivators, harrows, harrow teeth, churns, cheese presses, grain cradles, seed sowers, corn planters, corn shellers, hoes, horse hose, shovels, spades and trowels, garden shears, reels and lines, garden rakes, straw cutters, sugar mills, fan mills, hay and manure forks, hay knives, axes, hatchets, ax-handles, sickles, scythes, snathes, bush scythes, road scrapers, grind stones, wheel barrows, sausage cutters and stuffers, ox yokes and bows, patent bow pins, budding and pruning knives, well wheels and buckets, etc., etc.

PATENT COMBINED GANG PLOW, SEED SOWER AND HARROW.

We have purchased the right this great labor-saving implement for the State of California, and are having a number made in the Atlantic States for this market.

With this combined Machine one man, with six horses, can do the work of three twelve inch plows, besides sowing the grain, and harrowing it in as he proceeds, thus finishing his work in the best manner possible, without being obliged to travel over the plowed ground This Machine was very thoroughly tested by the farmers of Santa Clara county, where some eighty are now in use; also, by the Messrs. Hensel & Kethley, of this county, and Messrs Hoppin Brothers, near Cacheville, Yolo county. It is made very substantial; is not liable to get out of order, and being on large truck wheels, the Gang Plow, Seed Rower and Harrow, runs lighter than three plows would, cutting the same amount of land.

We are desirous of having these plows generally introduced throughout the State, and are therefore prepared to offer very favorable inducements to farmers and the trade. The following are some of the names of our customers who have used them for the past two seasons:

Sacramento county.—Hensel & Kethley.
Yolo county.—Hoppin Brothers, L M Curtis, Caleb Davis, C Travers, A J Scroggins.
Sutter county.—M Boulware, A L Chandler.

AT the mouth of the San Joaquin and Sacramento rivers. Title a patent from the United States.

On Wednesday, July 1, 1863.

The following farms, cottage houses, and homestead lots will be deeded to the purchasers of the certificates being only five dollars each, which is the expense of making and acknowledging the deed. So thus you see it is in the reach of every one to become an owner of real estate.

The object in distributing this valuable property at the mere expense of the deed, is to induce settlers to go to the new City, and by so doing it will enhance the value of property, more than any other way.

The farming country in Solano county cannot be surpassed. Fine soil, springs of pure water, &c, &c A city with such a situation, surrounded by so magnificent a country, cannot but have a great and glorious destiny. A ferry is established between this port, Antioch and New York, making the distance only 35 miles by land, to San Francisco, being a saving of over 100 miles to those who drive stock to that market.

On the opposite side of the river, at Antioch, there is located one of the largest Copper Smelting Works in the United States, with a capital of one million of dollars, and giving employment to a great number of men. We also have coal in abundance and at a low price; and as all improvements in our vicinity will benefit our place, we are confident that we shall have a large settlement at once.

We have a number of Farms for sale varying from 40 to 160 acres each. Persons wishing maps, or plans, or any information, will please address us by mail or express.

DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

THE OPERATION OF THIS PALATABLE remedy upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties.

Invigorate the System.

Vigorous digestion and pure bile produce nutricious blood, and nutricious blood a healthy frame. Does the victim of a dyspeptic stomach and a disordered liver desire to know how the digenstion may be improved, the bile and other fluids of the body purified?

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters

Will accomplish this desirable revolution in the system, regulating the secretions and excretions, giving tone to the animal juices which dissolve the food, strengthen every relaxed nerve, muscle and fibre, and brings the whole machinery of vitality into vigorous and healthful play.

Strengthen the System.

The best means of imparting vigor to the brokendown frame and shattered constitution, which has yet been invented or discovered, is proffered to the feeble of both sexes and all ages in

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Debility, from whatever cause arising, may be cured; strength, in whatever manner it may have been wanted, may be restored by the use of this powerful and healthful invigorant. For indigestion and all its painful effects, bodily and mental, they are a positive specific.

A Word to the Aged.

In the decline of life the loss of vital force consequent upon physical decay can only be safely supplied by some vivifying preparation which recruits the strength and spirits, without entailing the exhaustion which is always the final effect of ordinary stimulants. We tender to the aged

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters

As an invigorant and restorative, immediate in its beneficial action and permanent in its effects. It tones the stomach, improves the appetite, and acts like a charm upon the spirits.

For Females.

Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility, and all peculiar disturbances & derangements to which, as a sex, they are subject. It cheers and enlightens the oppressed mental powers, as well as stregthens the body, and its use is never followed by any reaction.

EXTRACT OF

Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla

Will Cure without Fail

Scrofula or King's Evil, Cancers, Tumors, Eruptions of the skin, Erysipelas, Chronic Sore Eyes, Ringworm or Tetter, Scald Head, Rheumatism, Pains in the Bones and Joints, Old Sores and Ulcers, Salt Rhrum, Diseases of the Kidneys, Loss of Appetite, Disease arising from the use of Mercury, Pain in the Side and Shoulder, General Debility, Dropsy, Jaundice, Lumbago, &c.

Dr. Guysott's Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla put up in the largest sized bottles, contains more of the Honduras Sarsaparilla than any other preparation extant, which is combined with the extract of Yellow Dock, the extract of Wild Cherry and the Balsam of Fir, thus making the remedy more thoroughly efficient that any other Sarsaparilla before the public. At the same time it is perfectly free from ALL mineral poisons, which can not be said of any other of the Sarsaparilla compounds. The Invalid should beware of poisons. Mercury, Iron, Quinine, Potash, Iodine, Sulphur, Arsenic, and many other mineral and metalic poisons enter into and form the active basis of most of the sarsaparilla and panaceas of the day. Guysott's Compound Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla does not contain a particle of the substances; as any one can ascertain by applying the necessary tests.

These poisons may occasionally remove disease, but they so vitiate the blood and impregnate the whole system with their baneful effects, that the first cold or the first attack of disease, prostrates the patient's strength and subjects him or her to the most excrutiating torture, and renders another cure almost impossible and hopeless. Let all poisonous sarsaparilla preparations alone, and use Guysott's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, which is thoroughly efficacious, perfectly harmless and purely vegetable. All kinds of diseases yield to its genial influence.

Caution.--Beware of counterfeits. All genuine Dr. Guysott's Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla has the name of JOHN D. PARK, Present Proprietor, Cincinnati, O., on the label.

Remember this fact when buying, all without the name of "JOHN D. PARK, Cincinnati, Ohio," on the label are counterfeit.
